B' Stuff Gael Geel!

Last Tuesday night as Trustee John Beichlein was driving home with his boy they discovered School House No. 7 of Marion township, commonly known as the Beichlein School house; on fire. By quick work they succeeded in putting the flames out, and discovered that it was an attempt of some one to destroy the place by fire. Ab Jenkins of Vincennes with his blood hounds was sent for and they arrived about 2:30 A. M. Wednesday morning. After a diligent search the dogs traced the man into the U. S. Hotel. They were tried three times with the same result. Nobody in the world believes that Ignatz Kress or his hired hand had anything to do with the fire. Yet the person who fired the School house must have come there shortly afterwards and there the dogs lost the track.

The Court Painters.

"A movement was on foot for the alliance of King Charles of Wurtemberg and the Grand Duchess Olga of Russia," said an artist. "An emissary of the Russian court came to the young king, laid certain proposals before him and submitted a portrait in oils of the royal lady. King Charles, after a close scrutiny, said:

"This portrait flatters overmuch. The eyes are too large and brilliant, the hair too abundant, the complexion too flowerlike and the neck and arms too beautiful altogether."

"But, your majesty," said the astonished Russian, "you do not know the grand duchess."

"No," said the king, "but I know court painters."

Spoke Well Of Her.

A preacher in the reign of Charles II. was to receive £10 if in his sermon at the funeral of Mrs. Creswell he said nothing but well of her. She was rather a bad character and herself had dictated the clause in her will. So, after a general address on mortality, he thus concluded: "By the will of a deceased sister it is expected that I should mention her and say nothing but what was well of her. All that I shall say of her, therefore, is this: She was born well, she lived well, and she died well, for she was born with the name Creswell, she lived in Clerkenwell, and she died in Bredwell."—Minneapolis Journal

A Golf Rule.

As Thanksgiving day is drawing near it might reflect some light on the event of its observance by giving the small boy's composition relating thereto: "Thanksgiving was brought over from England by the Puritan fathers in the year 1620. It has staid here ever since. On Thanksgiving everybody goes to church in the morning as to have everything out of the way before dinner. Then you come home and hang around a little while and get awful hungry smelling the turkey. After dinner Thanksgiving is over."

Life is too short to give up all to business and nothing to pleasure and rest. Too many people defraud their stomach, head and heart until they have made a competency. When they expect to enjoy the pleasure of life they are generally too old, or their greed for money has dried up all the well springs of their being and they are incapable of enjoyment. Devote your business hours to business and your leisure hours to innocent pleasure and wholesome amusement and the cultivation of such things as will make life pleasant.

Declare War On Colds.

A crusade of education which aims that common colds may become uncommon within the next generation has been begun by prominent New York physicians. Here is a list of the "don'ts" which the doctors say will prevent the annual visitation of the cold: "Don't sit in a draughty car." "Don't sleep in hot rooms." "Don't avoid the fresh air." "Don't stuff yourself at meal time. Over-eating reduces your resistance." To which we would add—when you take a cold get rid of it as quickly as possible. To accomplish that you will find Chamberlain's Cough Remedy most excellent. Sold by all dealers. adv.
